

SQUIRE SS-100 CLUB

CLBCOM 8
February 1991

The Good news first - Thru our quarterly add in Hemmings, which we are running every other time Replicas Wanted/'S' Cars Wanted, we have found another Squire. Tim & Paddy Sharon live in the Los Angeles area and he has had his Squire since 1977. He says it's bright yellow and has an automatic transmission with aftermarket air condtioning. Tim told me that he has quite a list of Squire owners but the list is pretty old. However, we'll try and contact them and mabye we'll get lucky. He has a COMPLETE manufacturers I.D. tag on his firewall and his car is #25. How about that! I do believe that's the first one we've found? And it's another low mileage car, only 10K. That's all I'm going to tell you for now because his car seems to have a very interesting history and I have asked him to put it on paper to include in a future newsletter. Welcome to the group, Sharon's. Tim has sent me some photos which I have reproduced but do not do the car justice. I hope my car looks that nice when I get the 12" headlights installed. More later.

Just completed a trip to the Bay Area in Northern California and while there visited with Bob Potter in Walnut Creek and looked over his Squire. Pretty car, pure white repaint with a new black top and new Michlen tires. Bob has two garages, one holds six and the other four and they are both full of classics that would turn you green with envy. Ah well!

The Sad News - No response from Frank & Paula Reisner at Intermeccanica in Vanvouver. I'm hoping that the Squire story is so interesting it's taking them a long time to get it on paper - but dont count on it. I suspect that they get bugged quite a bit by hobbyists like us and I suppose that's a big pain in the a-- to them. Lee Craft (Baltimore) sent me an article a while back to the effect that the Apollo, another Intermeccanica car, had just been admitted to the Automotive Hall Of Fame so I sent them a copy with a gentle reminder that we were still waiting. Time will tell.

Speaking of Lee Craft, he called last week to say that his Squire has just gone to the paint shop for a Corvette Yellow re-do. Send snapshots when you get it back, Lee.

Thru a series of letters-of-inquiry I have been shooting out all over the world, I recieved the name and address of the Intermeccanica Owners Club in Huntington, NY. I have written to them, again with no response to date. Gawd,that's frustrating!

More next month.
